Construction

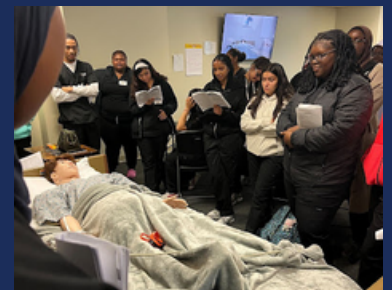

Youth worked on learning how to drive, use the skid steer, and worked on pouring a cement pad. Earlier in the week, the youth had fun racing each other on an obstacle course, where they picked up dirt, switched between the bucket and fork attachments, and maneuvered uphill to a designated spot, all while being timed. Later, they poured the cement pads for each group and learned how to use the tools needed to complete the cement pad that each group made.

STNA / Phlebotomy

The STNA program trainees made impressive strides! They've sharpened their patient care abilities, mastering tasks like bed baths, feeding, denture care, and dressing, and have aced four quizzes!

The Phlebotomy class ended last week. However, the students came in for testing.

WEEK IN REVIEW

This week, youth worked on learning how to drive, use the skid steer, and worked on pouring a cement pad. Earlier in the week, the youth had fun racing each other on an obstacle course, where they picked up dirt, switched between the bucket and fork attachments, and maneuvered uphill to a designated spot, all while being timed. Later, they poured the cement pads for each group and learned how to use the tools needed to complete the cement pad that each group made. They learned that while it was tempting to keep fixing mistakes, it became easier to work with the material once they allowed it to set.

LEADER OF THE WEEK

K'Shawn Jones

K'Shawn, who attends Fort Hayes, is planning to obtain a construction certification. He joined the Lead The Way and UCS program over the summer to improve his knowledge and started off very reserved. Now, he will be the first student to complete his OSHA 10 certification, is the first to request hands-on experience, and has taken a significant step out of his comfort zone, discovering a real passion for the trades.

The youth were able to complete an obstacle course on the skid steer. The top times were obtained by:

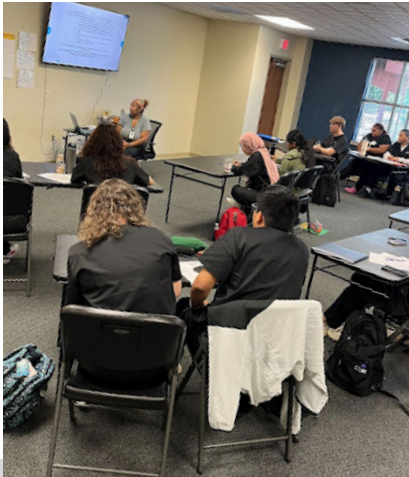

1. Zayquan Groce
2. Malon Campbell
3. Mesha Cook

LEADER OF THE WEEK

Hajirah Zwan

Hajirah has been remarkable this week for her punctuality. Her excitement about the program is evident as she has aced every test and is a pleasure to work with.

WEEK AHEAD

STNA Cohort 3 students are headed to clinicals next week!
